

ABSTRACT

The invention concerns a method for administrating information in a system for interactive communication comprising :

- 5 a) following a request for information (106) the verification (102, 104) if said information is available in the cache memory, the loading (110) of the information from the cache memory when it is available, and the loading of the information from 10 a broadcast source when it is unavailable,
- b) and further comprising the association (114) to the information in the cache memory of validity data, the verification of the validity data, in response to the request of information, and the loading of 15 the information from the broadcast source when the validity data of the information available in cache memory is expired.

Use for interactive applications.

Figure 2.